Producing Excellence

“We recently had an issue with a strawberry load that involved Mel Martin and Ranae Meiskey, as well as some other team members. As Ranae was trying to understand the Perishable Agriculture Commodities Act better, she went online and found a training course that USDA offers for free. She signed up - taking about 10 hours of her own time - and ultimately gained a better understanding of PACA rules that will help her and the team going forward. I thanked her for taking the time and initiative, and also asked her to pass the site on so that others can do the same... Ranae demonstrated leadership by taking it upon herself to develop her knowledge of a topic that is critically important in our industry. In doing so she also set an example of ‘dynamic leadership’ for others to follow.”
