What is a Sumo Citrus®?

- Exclusive new citrus varietal, developed in Japan and now grown on family farms in California's San Joaquin Valley.
- Large mandarin with some orange parentage. Its unique characteristics include a large, distinct shape that's easy to peel.
- Naturally seedless, sweet and juicy - Sumo Citrus® are 'enormously good to eat'.

Sumo Citrus® is unique in that it is large, seedless, exceptionally juicy, very sweet and easy to peel. Its homely exterior belies delicious individual sections bursting with delicate flavor.

The unique size, shape and look of Sumo Citrus® distinguish it from other mandarins.

Its Asian origin makes it exotic, but since it is grown in California, food safety and freshness are ensured at a fraction of the price that it costs in Japan.

Size & Appearance

- Easy to identify with the unique shape, bumpy rind and knob on the top that we like to call the Sumo Citrus® 'top-knot.'
- Handle with care – Don't let the rough exterior fool you. While the fruit looks tough and indestructible on the outside, it is somewhat delicate.
- Gently squeeze, if it "gives" a little, it means it's at its optimum taste and ready to eat

Premium Quality

- Sumo Citrus® trees are hand pruned, and fruit is hand thinned to maintain optimum number of fruit, delivering the best possible flavor.
- Picked and packed individually by hand, to avoid damage and ensure quality.
- Tested for ripeness before harvest for optimum taste.
- Grown and packed with the highest food safety standards.
