FINALLIE FERMENTS

MADE IN VERMONT • AGED IN OAK BARRELS

Before FinAllie Ferments took root in Vermont, founder Allie Dercoli was crisscrossing the country with her dog Fin, working on over 50 farms and learning the art of fermentation. What began as a second act soon became a calling—one that led her back to Vermont, where the magic of the Green Mountains inspired her to share the health and joy of probiotic foods.

Allie launched FinAllie Ferments at local farmers markets with Fin by her side. Her mission was simple: to bring the benefits of traditional fermentation to her community, support local farmers, and create connections through food. A trained artist in glassblowing, Allie now channels her creativity into healing and nourishing her neighbors.

ERIVAN DAIRY

Offering the finest Acidophilus Yogurt since 1970

Oreland, Pennsylvania

WHAT TO LOVE ABOUT ERIVAN ACIDOPHILUS YOGURT

- ★ Acidophilus is a group of beneficial (probiotic) human bacilli which inhibit the growth of harmful bacteria in the intestinal tract and stimulate the immune system. Poor diet and use of antibiotics can reduce the natural level of acidophilus in the body.
- ★ Long incubation and our proprietary process keeps the live culture and enzyme count high, assuring easier digestibility for even those with lactose intolerance, plus “better than milk” calcium absorption.
- ★ A choice blend of the freshest raw cow’s milk, pasteurized only once – just before culturing, gives Erivan Yogurt its special natural flavor. Since it is incubated in its own container, valuable whey, containing minerals, vitamins and protein is not lost.
- ★ Our cows have names not numbers. They are primarily grass fed and graze up to 16 hours each day depending on weather conditions.
- ★ Erivan (also spelled Yerevan) is the capital of Armenia. The “art” of yogurt making has been passed down through many generations. This is how we honor our Armenian heritage.
